Three goat formula: merging economic growth with social reform

In a village named Rui, nestled in Maharashtra's Marathwada region, GVT's meaningful journey took root. It began with a plea for water harvesting back in November 2022, eventually growing into an ambitious initiative involving river development, check dams, and recharge shafts. But this tale isn't just about water; it's about transforming lives. It's about a heartfelt request I made to the community. I appealed to them to stop selling illicit liquor to shield the youth of the village and foster a better future. What followed was a remarkable change – a unanimous decision taken by the community to ban the sale of 'daaru'. To support this transition, on October 13, 2023, GVT provided three pregnant goats to each shopkeeper, enabling them to sustain their livelihoods through goat-rearing. This story is a testament that mere economic growth isn't enough if the social fabric is frayed.

Increasing incomes without social reforms is like a bucket with a hole.
