ACTIVITIES OF THE MONTH

Capacity Building on vermicompost and organic farming

A training and exposure visit was organized at Ambivali, Palghar by GVT to promote sustainable farming practices, farmers from Wakadupada village in Vikramgad taluka participated in the session which covered vermicompost preparation, its benefits and proper application in farming. Farmers were also introduced to the Palghar Krishikul Project and its ongoing field activities. During a visit to the banana demonstration plots, they compared crops grown using chemical fertilisers with those cultivated organically using vermicompost, Dashparni and Gokrupa Amrutam. This hands-on exposure helped farmers understand the differences in crop growth and management and learn how organic inputs can be used in banana cultivation.

WORKING TOWARDS A WATER-SECURE FUTURE

Meeting with Parli Municipal Council

Collaborative efforts are underway to revive local rivers and address water scarcity affecting farmers. GVT Founder Shri Mayank Gandhi, former Parli Municipal Council President Shri Bajirao Dharmadhikari, local residents, and government representatives participated in discussions on the initiative. A separate meeting was also held with the Beed District Collector to discuss the proposed interventions. The initiative covers approximately 50 km of the Saraswati, Bramhangaanga, and Ghanshi (Venukati) rivers and their tributaries. Planned activities include desilting, clearing obstructions, and restoring river channels to improve water flow and groundwater recharge, ultimately strengthening water availability for farmers.

Meeting with Beed District Collector

FARMER INTERACTION AT GVT KRISHIKUL

Bharat Vikas Sangam, Yuva Shakti and Srijan Shakti, working towards social transformation across Karnataka, Telangana and Rajasthan, came together at GVT Krishikul Training Centre for a two-day learning and interaction programme.

The visit provided an opportunity to understand GVT's initiatives and the work being undertaken at Krishikul, with Mayank Sir addressing the participants and sharing insights on GVT's approach to rural development and farmer engagement. The programme also brought together farmers and representatives from the three organisations to exchange grassroots experiences, discuss rural challenges and explore practical approaches to creating meaningful change in rural communities.

FIELD SURVEY OF JASMINE FARMERS

A suspected fungal disease is causing heavy losses in mogra plantations across Palghar, especially after the monsoon. Affected plants show leaf yellowing, then drying, and often die. GVT's agronomy team found the problem recurring across many farms during routine visits.

To identify the cause, plant and soil samples were collected from a selected mogra plot at Dahanu. They were sent to Akola Agricultural University, Maharashtra, for testing, under the guidance of a senior scientist.

Based on the results, GVT will share recommended control measures with farmers to reduce losses and support sustainable mogra cultivation.

HELPING FARMERS THROUGH DROUGHT

Drip irrigation support

With rainfall remaining significantly below average this year, drought has been declared across districts in Marathwada, posing challenges for farmers in sustaining their fruit plantations and protecting their livelihoods.

Recognising these challenges, Rotary Club of Delhi Premier (RCDP) came forward to support farmers in collaboration with Global Vikas Trust (GVT), facilitating the distribution of drip irrigation systems to around 400 farmers in Dharashiv district.

This timely intervention will help farmers manage their plantations amid water scarcity and safeguard the years of effort and investment they have put into developing their orchards. Reaffirming its continued commitment, RCDP has also pledged further support for drip irrigation, with the aim of extending this assistance to more farmers.

BUILDING PARTNERSHIPS FOR RURAL DEVELOPMENT

Meeting with Mr. Siddharth Sharma, Tata Trusts

The GVT team met with Mr. Hitesh Oberoi, Managing Director of Info Edge (parent company of Naukri.com, 99acres and Jeevansathi.com), and Mrs. Rimy Oberoi, Founder of The Employability Foundation, to discuss GVT's work and explore potential ways to collaborate. The discussion focused on GVT's rural development model and ways to expand its reach to support more farming communities across the country. GVT team shared their experience in developing a successful farmer livelihood model that is scalable and replicable, and how collaboration with external organisations will help in replicating this model successful across the country.

On 2nd September, 2026, the GVT team met with Mr Siddharth Sharma, CEO of Tata Trusts, at their office to explore potential areas in rural development where they can work together. Tata Trusts, which has earlier supported 52.4 km or river rejuvenation was pleased to note the record speed at which GVT had completed the work.

They spoke about improving farmer livelihoods, undertaking water conservation efforts and starting new initiatives like nutrition programs. They discussed ways by which both organisations can leverage their strengths in building a long-term sustainable partnership, working together on initiatives that address challenges faced by rural communities.

Meeting with Mr. Hitesh Oberoi &
Mrs. Rimy Oberoi

CSR PARTNERS FIELD VISIT

In September, two CSR partners visited GVT's project areas to review the work on the ground, interact with farmers, and understand the impact of the programmes they support.

Visit-1 Aurum Foundation – Wada (Palghar) 29 September 2026

The Aurum Foundation CSR team visited GVT's Palghar and to the fields of mogra farmers in Ujjaini village. They discussed with farmers about the economics of mogra cultivation and the challenges they face. GVT agronomist Ashish Bujad explained the key aspects of the crop, including soil suitability, cultivation costs, maintenance, and climate needs. The team also planted mogra saplings in the farmers' fields, gaining hands-on experience in plantation work.

CSR PARTNERS FIELD VISIT

Visit-2 Chola Foundation – Solapur 16–17 September 2026

Mr. Hemantha Kumar Pamarthy and Ms. Deepshika Lakra from Chola Foundation visited Solapur district to review the GVT's Farmer livelihood programme. They interacted with around 10 banana and sericulture farmers to understand how their farming practices, cropping patterns, and incomes have changed after joining the programme. The team also visited the GVT Akluj Cluster office and discussed the programme's implementation, field operations, coverage, and farmer engagement with the GVT team.

OTHER INITIATIVES BY GVT, SEPTEMBER

Senior agronomists from Rise and Shine Banana Nursery conducted a crop management training for farmers in Bharuch, Gujarat.

GVT organised a banana crop discussion session to guide farmers on scientific cultivation practices, climate-related challenges, and ways to improve crop yield while reducing input costs.

GVT provided drone-based spraying services to 38 farmers across 100+ acres in Beed district, Maharashtra, helping manage pest attacks while reducing crop losses, labour and spraying time.

GVT ANNACHATRA – A MEAL FOR EVERYONE

GVT's Annachattra (free meal) initiative, launched in May 2026, continues to provide free meals to individuals facing financial hardship, ensuring access to a basic daily meal. Operating across three locations—Sirsala, Parli, and Ambajogai in Beed district, Maharashtra—the initiative remains committed to addressing food insecurity with dignity and care.

In September 2026, approximately 15,969 meals were served, taking the total number of people served since the initiative's inception to 77,000+. The continued reach of Annachattra highlights the importance of sustained community support in ensuring that those in need have access to a dependable meal.

ACTIVITY AT GVF, USA

Global Vikas Foundation (GVF) participated in Sevathon, an event organised by the India Community Center in Silicon Valley, bringing together several hundred participants representing nonprofit organisations and social causes. The event provided a platform for organisations to showcase their work, raise awareness and encourage public participation in social initiatives. GVF used this opportunity to share its mission of rural development and improving farmer livelihoods while connecting with people who support meaningful social change.
